We've been in business as a law firm since 1990, and have provided our current services since 2008. We bring a lot of experience to the table, and our success has allowed us to expand into several states. Now that we're here in Illinois, we're eager to help a whole new set of clients with their credit report and debt collection issues. In addition to cleaning up credit reports for consumers, we also help identity theft victims through the credit report recovery process, and make abusive debt collectors stop calling.
